MRS. LEAH WHITLOCK DEAD.

This Well-Known Lady Passes Away-Other Deaths and Funerals. Mrs. Leah Whitlock, wife of Mr. Henry Whitlock, the well-known merchant tailor, died yesterday morning at 7:45 o'clock, at the residence of her brotherin-law, Mr. Ellis Abrams, No. 714 east Clay street. Deceased had been in ill-health for some months, and a short time since was taken to Asheville N. C., time since was taken to Asheville N. C., in hopes that the change of air and scene would benefit her. This, however, proved a vain hope, and she returned here about three weeks ago. She grew rapidly worse, and the end came peacefully and quietly. Mrs. Whitlock was a woman of many high traits of character. She was very popular among a wide circle of friends, who will deeply regret to learn of her death. She leaves, besides her husband and several near relatives, six children—

DOUGLAS CHASED BY MARMION.

Marmion is Sergeant Tomlinson and His Fiery Steed a Bicycle.

The case of J. S. Douglass, the negro charged with stealing a bicycle from H. Salomonsky, a little boy, was called before Justice John yesterday morning, and Douglass was sent down for six months. The wheel, it seems, was stolen last spring, and while the police have searched diligently, never once letting it get out of their minds, more than six months had elapsed before they came upon it, so "close" had Douglass laid with it. He did not want to be arrested even then, but made off, only to be overtaken by Detectives Tomlinson and Gibson. doing the indiscreet and ungaliant thing

It is often the case in similar instances that after the beaten wife has gotten over the fit of smarting and anger she comes to court and begs the unholy husband off. But this one was made of dif-ferent clay, for when she said "no" she meant "no." She told awful tales of being tumbled down several flights of steps and every convenient coal-cellar in the neighborhood, and adduced bruises on the forehead to prove it.

In the case of Lee A. Arden, charged with assaulting Percy Lewis with a rock, accused was taxed $2.50 and costs.

Rosa Madison (colored) was charged with behaving disrespectfully to Sarah Chapman to the extent of a severe beating, and was fined $2.50. The gentle Sarah was fined $2.50 for similar treatment of Rosa Coleman.

Mr. Robert McNamee and Mrs. Etta Burch were wedded Wednesday night at No. 1016 east Clay street. The parlors had been especially decorated for the cccasion with palms and cut-flowers, and the pink shaded lamps cast a roseate glow over all the surroundings. Promptly at 9:30 o'clock the bride and groom, preceded by the ushers-Mr. Boyce and Mr. Rector-entered the front parlor and were met by the Rev. Dr. Starr, pastor of Broad-Street Methodist church, who performed the ceremony. The bride looked very handsome in a gray taffeta gown, with violet trimmings, and carried a large bouquet of violets. After receiving the congratulations of their many friends, the couple, together with their guests, repaired to the dining-room, where an elegant supper was served.

"The grocery store of C. Domeniel & Co., No. 1719 east Franklin street, was entered by thieves last night and a lot of flour, bacon, tobacco, cigars, and some money was stolen therefrom. They entered from the rear. Some of the stuff was found in the alley and some in the next lot. Goods all recovered, except the money. Captain THOMAS."

Policeman Werner caught one of the thieves—a well-known negro, who has been convicted on similar charges—but he managed to make his escape, and up to this time to clude the vigilance of the police. His ultimate capture, however, is the matter of a few days.

Will See the Fight To-Night.

Will See the Fight To-Night.

The veriscope pictures of the famous Corbett-Fitzsimmons glove contest, which will be exhibited at the Academy of Music this afternoon, to-night, and to-morrow afternoon and night, are among the greatest sensations of the year. Since their first exhibition at the Academy of Music in New York, the newspapers of the country have given columns of space to the discussion of many important features of the contest developed in the pictures. Many of these features were scarcely noticed by the spectators at the ringside, owing to the intense excitement that prevailed, yet they have an important bearing on the issue of the fight.

In showing the veriscope over forty pictures are given in a second, and in the preliminary, final scenes, and the fourteen rounds of the contest, over 183,600 pictures are shown.
